

Nichols' team expands

Oklahoma City bombing suspect Terry Nichols has a new Tigar on his legal team — lead attorney Michael Tigar's wife, Jane.

She was added to Nichols' taxpayer-paid defense team last week, according to a court filing made public yesterday.

She received a law degree from Columbia University and was admitted to the Colorado Bar Association Oct. 21, said a spokeswoman in Tigar's Denver office.

Nichols and co-defendant Timothy McVeigh are charged with murder, conspiracy and weapons charges in the April 19, 1995, bombing of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building, which killed 168 people.

McVeigh's trial is scheduled March 31 in U.S. District Court in Denver.
